

The State of Louisiana requires all retail food operations Louisiana Certified Food Safety Manager. best way to provide proof of Knowledge of this, otherwise known as “Demonstration of Knowledge” is to pass an American National Standards Institute (ANSI) exam in order to obtain the required permits from the Louisiana Board of Health to operate a food service establishment. Food and Alcohol Safety Classes (FnaSafety.com) a division of the Integrated Food Service Consulting Group is the leading supplier of the National Restaurant Associations Educational Foundations ServSafe Food Manager Program, they also are authorized representatives for the Learn2Serve-360 products, The National Registry of Food Safety Professionals, The TAP Series, the National Environmental Health Association (NEHA), and the SafeMark certification.

All of the above Louisiana Certified Food Safety Manager exams for certification meet the requirements of the State of Louisiana. They meet the requirements of the Council for Food Protection Food and Alcohol Safety Classes also offers Food Handler training and certification, Responsible Alcohol Service, Allergen Awareness Training and HACCP. Online courses are available nationwide and instructor led live classes are currently available throughout the country.

Most courses are available in English and and Spanish and some offer Chinese, while many exams are also available in Japanese, Vietnamese, French Canadian and Portuguese.

Food and Alcohol Safety Classes (FnaSafety) is a division of Integrated Food Service Consulting. A nationwide leader in Food Service Consulting, Food and Alcohol safety training, mystery shopping (exclusively for the food and beverage industry), food safety auditing and HACCP Compliance.